

---

Designing of Children's Hospital with concept of Environmental Psychology

ghazal tousheh kah*, Dr. Hamzeh Gholamali Zadeh,

Abstract In today's world, various places have been created according to different functions and applications. Hospitals, health and medical sites are the need of modern man. With the passage of time and advancement of science, different scientific branches have grown and have created any circumstances and needs. The health of children who are the future of any society is of paramount importance. Access, physical condition, location and the various spaces, materials and light quality and appearance are what the appropriate treatment are important for the formation of a place. Each community health through attention to issues of mental and physical funded, under which conditions and specific cases considered. Today's decision-makers in each country to enhance public health and medical services in addition to promoting science, should have tried to establish treatment facilities. Create new collections to suit the needs of each community is one of the ways to provide health care for its citizens. This paper attempts to provide a solution for those designers who are looking for a model for a children's hospital.

Keywords : Keywords: Hospital, psychology, architecture, children, medical sites

Islamic Azad University, Rasht Branch - Thesis Database
دانشگاه آزاد اسلامی واحد رشت - سامانه بانک اطلاعات پایان نامه ها