
Study of Electronic Trial Process and its Effects

Rahele Ebrahimnejad*,

How justice has always been one of the most important issues is the judicial body. Today, with the progress of societies, justice and progress has been far their traditional mode. This study intends to examine the judicial body's electronic hearing. Given the lack of resources in the electronic proceedings after a comprehensive study on the subject concluded Judicial body hearing that Iran is still in its traditional form to survive And so they should be important to the (electronic hearing) is not given much importance. It should be said about the concept is not yet complete definition of this entity But the use of electronic devices at the hearing to give some relevance to the concept of the institution. On the benefits and challenges should be to reduce the time trial, And lack of necessary infrastructure such great benefits and challenges this institution. Including in the area of infrastructure, it is still important as it should perhaps have been neglected and in this regard we have serious problems
