Abstract Due to the necessity link to among articulate some knowledge in today's world, as well as extensive interdisciplinary studies and the appearing of new and emerging phenomenal such as professional rights, professional ethics and soon among businesses, unions and enterprises, the need for examining the basics of professional rights and ethics in the legal system of notary is felt. Despite the link between professional rights and ethics, but should be noted that lack of utilization professional rights by supportive institutions, can't be an excuse for non-compliance with professional ethics by owners of occupations, businesses. For supportive institutions may be envisaged the different approaches by the laws, but it will be not necessarily a contradiction with their intrinsic duty and existential philosophy. Therefore the proper functioning of supportive institutions and their interaction with notaries and their consistency with each other within the professional rights is very necessary. On the other hand because of the main position of notary's professional rights in the realm of regulations and rules as well as its interacting with supportive institutions, lack of performance or weakness of laws regarding being up to date and the impossibility of full utilization of professional rights, recognition and its development to restore these rights is also taken into consideration. In conjunction with the professional ethics with regard to the examination of ethical issues in the three spectrum of the supportive institutions, other notaries (competitors) and owners of documents (stakeholders), the basic of commitment notary's professional ethics, could be searched in the principles of fundamental moral and his oath. It seems that the moral responsibility of notary may be a basic for other his responsibilities, but on the other hand not respecting professional ethics can't be necessarily sufficient for the lack of utilization his professional rights, unless stipulated in the regulations and rules.
