Abstract: Privacy has always been supported as a field outside of the state authority by the authorities in three levels of judicial, legislative and executive. Human society tries to support this field through various tools. Cyberspace is also considered as an emerging field which has a direct relationship with the privacy of individuals and an individual's life. On the other hand, due to the extent and ease of access, this space can cause many crimes against public morality and decency and provide a perfect platform for committing anti-normative behaviors. Therefore, the society should guarantee cyber security and protect personal space through various tools, especially criminalization to support this field and maintain its own health. In this research, the writer has tried to investigate the effect of computer crimes against public decency and morality on the privacy of family and society and understand legal problems related to these crimes and finally present some solutions to solve this issue. It is worth noting that those fields in which crimes against morality and decency in cyberspace occurs include: publishing and trading pornographic pictures, insulting, defaming and spreading computer falsehoods, inviting people to engage in criminal and illegal actions, prostitution and pornography, teaching how to commit crimes and adultery. The most important one is prostitution and pornography in cyberspace. Given the importance of these crimes, the writer has tried to investigate these two crimes in this research. Finally, after investigating the ways to prevent these crimes in cyberspace and how protect the privacy of people, it was concluded that while authorities should consider criminalization as a repressive apparatus as the last resort, but in some cases the behavior of individuals in cyberspace, whether natural or legal, can cause harm to individuals or society and hurt the public morality and decency, resorting to the repressive apparatus is justifiable.
