Abstract Nowadays, Every country in the world are facing intensive crisis regarding juvenile delinquency and one of the most important and troubling issues in criminal laws, are the laws concerning children and adolescents. In current communities, criminal children and adolescents are given special and serious attention and special rules and laws and inquest authority are also designated for them. Addressing delinquency of this group of the community can be effective in preventing their crime commission in future. Considering the fact that children and adolescents constitute a great part of the community and that they are the creators of the future of their countries, more sensitivity and meticulousness to the delinquency of this group of the stratum is required. With regard to these facts and sensitivities and for the purpose of transcending the related rules and developing more consistency with the instructions of Children's Rights Convention, Islamic Penalty Code enacted in year 1392, and also Penal Jurisdiction Creed Code 1392 have undergone significant changes and improvements.
