Abstract: Today, for various reasons, many children are born without a guardian. It is a social problem to manage more than to be an individual problem. Failure to pay attention to their future can lead to inappropriate conditions for them and society. These children are victims of community violence, which not only deprived of having a family center but also receiving them and looking overhead. Their small minds always feel the need for a shelter, so being in an environment that constantly feels anxiety, anxiety and constant fear, weakness in personality, etc., resulting in self-doubt and depression And being isolated among these children, and in the face of it, some children may become violent acts to attract attention and differentiate others and ultimately become an inappropriate personality for the community. We must be aware that childhood is the most effective period of human life and children's human capital in any society, and paying attention to the needs of this period and especially these children is a social necessity. Which has led many communities to work together to provide an environment that is appropriate for their relative comfort in the minds of children and shelters that are mentally safe for them. This environment should be able to respond to physical and mental needs. Accordingly, the design of spaces that promote their physical, mental and emotional development and social security is of great importance. Apart the environment and human factors involved in the maintenance of children, factors such as the housing structure and its location, environmental factors such as light, color, noise, green space, climatic conditions, etc. are also important for this purpose. . Nowadays, due to the current conditions, many children's care centers that do not have the required standards require serious attention to the design category in accordance with the existing standards. These places are the child's home, in which the issue of the residence of the child's sense of belonging to the environment in which they live is also a matter of education. In the meantime, the issue of improving the learning of the child is very important. In fact, it can be a heart-warming environment for the child. , Experience the experiences of other children, at home and on the other, being a member of society. By examining the effect of physical space on the quality and quality of a child's life, it seems necessary to The care center for unmarried children in Guilan province and in particular Bandar Anzali, according to the existing standards, should be considered to determine if the child care center of the child abandoned child meets the desired status, then with the information obtained and Analysis of the deficiencies We are going to design a child's home for unmarried children according to their needs.
