

The Role Of farmhands Cooperetion in the Village Body Development in Rahmatabad and Bolukat Region, Roudbar County

Sharam Piranderokh*,

Evaluate the effectiveness of the m So as to identify strengths and weaknesses successfully ost important factors in the development of an organization.The As more and more organizations guarantees.Since Dhyaryha and Councils are two key elements to evaluate the contribution of rural management Many of rural development, especially development of their physical play.Research Study investigated the role of local management in rural structural and overcome them transformation Is taken. Range studied in this work of mercy Green u0026 Blue Cut In Ast.shhrstan located in the southern province of Gilan is roudbar .The data used In the study, including two which the local councils and the turnout The construction activities through field survey, questionnaire andRefer to Data analysis was descriptive and therefore the methods the relevant authorities have been obtained .According to the methodology, Statistics and related applications such as EXCEL and SPSS was used.For Geographic analysis and hypotheses have been examined to establish the level of GIS is designed. The results of the study indicate that, in view of the two which Council Fairly dramatic changes in the improvement of socio-economic evolution Physical presence is associated with the development of the village. Thus, with Children stay in the village, but was not satisfied with the quality respect to the indices in terms of facilities and welfare Roads and pathways and the development of cooperation with the Council and Dhyary and construction are relatively satisfied with the main issues to consider Budget deficits and weaknesses in the implementation of conductors and managers are seen.

Keywords : Farmhands Cooperetion, Body Development, Village in Rahmatabad and Bolukat, Roudbar County

