Review: Nowadays attention to the criteria for the use of types and especially the residential user has been more than outweighed. The city of Lahijan in the east of Gilan, which is a symbol of the natural beauty of the region, has 7 old neighborhoods, one of which is Amir Shahid. The name of the Amir Shahid (the area in question) is based on the name of the shrine. The present research considers the residential use of the Amir-e-Shahid Lahijan neighborhood according to the study of the criteria of the survey. One of the objectives of the research is to analyze the status (quantitative and qualitative) of the residential use of the Amir-Chashid Lahijan neighborhood, as well as to determine the indicators, residential utilization criteria in Amir-Chahid Lahijan neighborhood, and finally present the proposal to improve the status quo. One of the problems of this research is the exact boundary for the neighborhood in the city, which is roughly and customarily identified, and this does not allow accurate statistics to be available for the neighborhoods (in isolation). The method of research of this thesis was based on documentary and field collecting method and considering the high density and occupancy level that was created in the new texture of this neighborhood, due to the decrease of vacant spaces and the aggregation of the neighborhood the houses, the best The way to optimize living conditions in the Amir Shahid neighborhood is to create a space for urban breathing (green space and park), which is possible given the available space.
