

Relationship between perceived parenting styles and self-control capacity and emotional self-correction of juvenile offenders

Shadi Pourhadi*,

One of the important reasons for the formation of inappropriate behavior and delinquency in adolescents is the problem of parental parenting and the perception of these problems by adolescents. The purpose of the present study was to determine the relationship between perceived parenting styles and self-control self-regulation and emotional self-control of juvenile offenders of correctional center. The research method was descriptive correlational. The population of this study included all delinquent adolescents the Guilan Provincial Reconstruction and Rehabilitation Center in March of 2018. 94 of them were ed using available sampling method. According to the conditions of entry and exit, 70 students were ed and the questionnaire Babermind's childbearing styles (1973) completed the emotional self-control of March (Salehi Morakani, 2006). The data were analyzed using Pearson correlation coefficient and multiple regression. Findings showed that there is a positive and positive relationship between reliant child-rearing style and self-management self-regulation and emotional self-affirmation, and there is a negative and significant relationship between easy parenting style and self-management self-regulation and emotional self-regulation, as well as between authoritarian parenting style and emotional self-regulation. (P

Keywords : Key Words: perceived parenting style, self-control, emotional self-regulation, delinquency.

Islamic Azad University, Rasht Branch - Thesis Database
دانشگاه آزاد اسلامی، واحد رشت - سامانه بانک اطلاعات پایان نامه ها