The present research has been done to achieve the divorce rules in the verses using the principles of jurisprudence and the rules of the religions of the Imams and Sunnis and the extent of their differences and disagreements in this regard. Definition, basis, nature, causes of divorce and its effects are the most important subjects of this research. Findings of the research show that divorce is the one that eliminates the effect of a certain marriage and returns to the time of marriage. The terms of divorce and divorce are that they are both unilateral legal acts, which will dissolve the marriage, and none of them affect the past, and terminate the marital relationship the date of the cancellation or divorce, as well as the number of women in both The case is three. On the difference of these two, one can say that, firstly, divorce is a right that a couple will be entitled to as soon as a marriage contract is entered into, but the termination is a disadvantage for marriage. Secondly: Termination is essentially non-divorce, so the terms and conditions of the divorce are not rescinded. Thirdly, divorce, if followed in succession, leads to respect, but the termination does not always create respect. In this research, the study of the laws of Islam was made with the thoughts of other jurists: Mohaqiq Helli, in the jurisprudence of al-Islam, based on jurisprudential principles such as verses, consensus, traditions and custom with divine divorce, describes the rules and conditions of its occurrence, and in terms of The legal nature of the divorce is considered by the man as his representative. He even believes that in cases the divorce is based on the consent of the couple and in the form of deportation or struggle, it should be considered as a unilateral legal act, and in his judgments in certain cases of divorce, such as divorce, divorce law, and ... but with some of the jurisprudents in some cases, such as: divorce, divorce, bastard divorce, divorce, etc., which believes that the absence of any legitimate condition in marriage gives the right to terminate. So, the look and method of the research are
